CLASSICS FOR BANDITS.

HOW A FAIR CAPTIVE WON HER RELEASE.
ESCORT INTO SAFETY.

Romance That May End 300-Year Old Feud.

Because she possessed the eloquence of a Portia, a Chinese girl obtained her release, without payment of ransom, from bandits who were pleasantly surprised to receive subsequent payment.

Such is the story related to a "China Mail" reporter by the girl's father, a native of the metropolitan district of Pun U, whose home is close to the naval port of Whampoa, about an hour's steaming from Canton.

In a village of several hundred souls, there are two clans which have been bitter enemies because of a feud which originated about three centuries ago.

Some three years back, the weaker clan had its houses razed to the ground, their members having started the fight the previous day.

Deprived of their homes, a number of the young men on the losing side betook themselves to the hills where they earned a precarious livelihood by acting as scouts for robbers.

Just before China New Year, four sisters, whose ages ranged from sixteen to twenty-five, were returning home from Canton to enjoy the annual festival with their relatives. On the sampan which was to convey them over the last stage of the journey, a man who had been half asleep produced two revolvers from the fold of his long-coat. It took him several minutes to suppress the sisters' cries of fear, and when he had done this he ordered the sampan-folk to row the boat ashore where several confederates awaited him. Leaving one to "see off" the sampan, the gang made a trek for the hills meanwhile removing what small articles of jewellery the girls had with them.

On arrival at the robber den, the girls were questioned one by one. No matter how they tried they could not separate the youngest of the sisters who insisted on answering all questions. They tried to conceal their identity but the robber who had been in the boat insisted to the others that they were the daughters of a rich member of the clan which had been victorious in the village scrap. He went further. Pointing at the girls, he told the gang that their brother had taken a leading part in the raid on his clan. Against the brother he had sworn vengeance and the opportunity had now come.

However, the majority of the robbers were inclined to accept the girls' story, which was that they were only employed in a "paper-flower" shop in Canton, and were going back to their people in Whampoa, and on the counsel of the leader, decided to release three of the girls, keeping back the fourth sister. At this stage, this girl of sixteen pleaded with them to let her go as well. During the whole night, she spoke about the generosity of chivalrous outlaws in the days gone by. Quoting the classics she remonstrated with them not to divide up the sisterhood, and the other three backed her up by refusing to leave unless she went with them.

Unable to come to a decision, the gang sought the counsel of a neighbouring bandit chief, who extracted a promise from the girls that if they were released, they would pay a sum of money—whatever they thought fit—to their captors. On their giving this promise, they were escorted to a neighbouring ferry-point where the robbers bade them return home. Still, the fourth sister was not satisfied. Because of the threats made by the member of the rival clan, she felt that they would be open to further attack on the way home. She insisted that her escort accompany her to the wharf nearest Whampoa, and the guards actually consented to leave the safety of their own district just to comply with the request.

At Whampoa, the liberated girls put up with friends, not daring to venture back to their native village. Their father was communicated with and he sent them $2000. After China New Year they went to a shop in Canton through which they received a sum of $4000 and other tributes in kind to their father.

Not even to their father would they reveal the name of the bandit who had taken them.

Had taken them nor would they give any clue to their brother—who insisted on revenge—as to the identity of the man who had engineered their capture. As the father said to the "China Mail" man, "My fourth daughter had taken them nor would they give any clue to their brother—who insisted on revenge—as to the identity of the man who had engineered their capture. As the father said to the "China Mail" man, "My fourth daughter won her freedom through speech. In the course of her speech, she gave her word of honour. I had to redeem her promise and there the matter ends as far as I am concerned. Nevertheless, she is still receiving correspondence from the robbers, including a letter thanking her for the money and gifts. I can only hope that her friendship with them will put an end to the feud between the two neighbouring clans.

some time. This morning, the course was slippery in a few places but not holding. Undoubtedly, times will be on the slow side. Sand may be put on the grass at the bare spots on both sides of the winning post and near the six furlong post.

Of most interest to-day will be the performances, on a comparatively heavy course, of the ponies which did well at the annual and the first extra meetings when the track was hard.

The first saddling bell is at 2 p.m. and the first race is at 2.30.

"HONGKONG SERVICE."

WIRELESS NEWS FOR STEAMERS.
NEW BROADCASTING PLAN.

Improved "Ship to Shore" Arrangements.

Passengers in Far Eastern waters may ere long have "all the latest" wireless to them from Hongkong instead of having to depend, as is generally the case at present, on German and French wireless stations.

The Government is causing enquiries to be made with regard to the possibilities of such news being broadcast from Cape D'Aguilar, the "China Mail" understands.

We also learn that the station at Stonecutters has been broadcasting news purely for the China station for some time and that a price of the newspapers of Hongkong has been regularly despatched for the benefit of the ships in the Far East who are on the high seas or out of touch with mail news.

No charge can, of course, be made for the service that it is anticipated Hongkong will provide, but the tribute to the enterprise of the Colony which will be paid by many a passenger as he glances at the words "Hongkong service" at the bottom of the welcome message (always assuming that plans materialise) will surely be sufficient to justify the little expenditure that would be incurred in running such a service.

The service would also be a boon to officers of the mercantile marine who are practically cut off from all news at present when between ports.

Regarding wireless communication generally it was noted in the annual report of the Hongkong General Chamber of Commerce that the fact that messages can only be received here during the hours that the Hongkong Post Office is open causes considerable delays at the end of the week, and the suggestion there put forward was that in view of the extent of "ship to shore" traffic, arrangements should be made whereby messages can be received and delivered in Hongkong, at least, at any time during the twenty-four hours.

HOME MAILS.

The Home mails via Suez and Siberia arrived simultaneously this morning.

The P. & O. Karmala via Suez brought 469 bags of letters and newspapers posted in London on February 19, and the parcel mail of February 12 comprising 111 bags. The mails will be ready for delivery about 1 o'clock to-day.

The mail of February 27 via Siberia which arrived by the a.s. Agapenor (approximately 20 bags) will be ready for delivery about 4 p.m.

With an outward mail this morning and bumper arrivals of European and other mails, the G.P.O. staff had more work than they could handle.

Charged with robbery at No. 6, Mongkok Road, on February 6, a Chinese was remanded at the Kowloon Magistrate's this morning.

A Canadian Farm

on Easy Terms

Do you wish to possess your own Farm Home through annual payments, so small that you have a substantial surplus for comfortable living?

The new plan of the Canadian Pacific Railway makes possible the realization of your dream.

The Canadian Pacific Railway will own large blocks of land in Western Canada where virgin soil possibilities are immense. Some acres of fertile or sheltered pasture-lands where settlers of a few years ago have found profit and comfort.

The Canadian Pacific Railway now offers you a Farm Home in Western Canada on a new Long-Term Plan of Easy Payment that is extraordinary. Every farmer must be interested in any plan that makes it possible to own a home without taking all his profits to meet his land payments and still enable him to give his family the comfort and enjoyment of life.

• Payments extended over 35 years •

FIRST YEAR FREE USE OF LAND

Under this plan all the settler pays down is 75% of the purchase price—then he will have one year's free use of the land, and, after that, the balance of principal will be amortized on an easy basis, with 24 equal annual payments which makes the second payment fall due two years after the purchase of the land, which is figured on the basis of 75% of the balance of the cost of the land. For example, one purchase of 10 acres costing $5,000, the down payment will be $3,750 and the annual payments, commencing in the third year, will be $450. At the end of 35 years the settler will get, clear title to the land—unless, of course, he wishes to pay sooner, which is his privilege. There are no restrictions and there are no taxes on your freehold buildings, improvements, implements or personal effects. Good schools, churches, modern roads, electric lights, telephone, mail, and all the modern conveniences of Western Canada are available. This offer is available only to settlers who are willing to live on the land for a year before the new farm offer. For full information, send your name to the nearest agent or write to:

A new medicine for the cure of Aneurism, Cancer and Carbuncle by Injection and Internal use.

Most physicians and surgeons have expressed the opinion that Aneurism, Cancer and Carbuncle are incurable and many deaths have been caused by these dread diseases. Dr. T. H. M. B. Professor of the Japanese Imperial University has made a careful study of these diseases for several years and has at last discovered the use of "CARBONOLYSIN" for injection and internal use. A large number of cancer patients have been cured by the use of this medicine and it is now becoming well known for its curative properties. Foreigners have always died of these diseases owing to failure to find a remedy. Dr. T. H. M. B. is now curing cancer of the liver which is a phase of one of the above-mentioned diseases. Those suffering from this disease will gradually develop fever, nervousness, primary troubles, bad appetite, dizziness and vomiting. Victims of this disease are advised to immediately procure "CARBONOLYSIN" from our agents and by taking this internally or by injection the progress of the disease will be stopped and rapid relief obtained. Cancer Glands will disappear and swollen glands be reduced to a minimum quickly and easily by the use of "CARBONOLYSIN". Those having hereditary disease are advised to take "CARBONOLYSIN" in order to check its activities. This medicine is the result of long experiment and has no injurious effect on those taking it.

MOON OF ISRAEL.

EPIC FILM COMES TO THE COLONY.

SPLENDORS OF THE PAST.

Nobody could want a better Saturday picture than that showing at the Coronet Theatre to-day: for be the weather good or bad this afternoon, the "Moon of Israel" is a picture that can claim to vie with, if not to excel, every other local attraction in the entertainment line.

"Moon of Israel," an most people must know, is the work of that famous novelist Sir H. Rider Haggard. But not until they have seen it can cinema-goers realize what a wonderful film it makes, thanks to the masterly skill of the producer, Sir Oswald Stoll.

The most has been made of the great spectacular possibilities of the story, but the romance of the book has been preserved—the love of a maiden of Israel for an Egyptian prince.

It is, however, as a spectacle that the "Moon of Israel" chiefly appeals. More remarkable photography has seldom been seen. The wedding and coronation of Pharaoh alone represent a triumph of the highest order.

The picture deals with the escape of the Israelites from the bondage of the Pharaohs. The horrors of the plagues, the flight of thousands of people with their goods and their sheep and their oxen, the pursuit of the Egyptians—all these are shown with a realism that brings before the eyes of modern Hongkong one of the greatest Biblical stories in a truly wonderful way.

A special word must be said for the passage of the Red Sea, which has rightly been hailed as an extraordinary spectacular achievement. The overwhelming flood that drowned Pharaoh, his horsemen and his chariots is depicted with a realism that is little short of amazing. It is unique among the marvels of the screen.

Mr. Adelqui Millar gives a fine performance as Prince Seti, who sacrifices a throne for the love of a maid of Israel. Miss Maria Corda, pretty and talented, is charming as the maid. Mr. Henry Mar is an impressive Moses. The other roles, needless to say, are all ably filled.

Lack of space forbids more than the briefest mention of the settings which are massive and artistic in their splendour. Some of them were actually staged in the Valley of the Kings at Luxor where part of the intensely romantic story is laid.

Therefore it will be seen that besides being "a landmark in British screen production," this picture is a masterpiece fit to take its place with the world's supreme cinema efforts, and as such is creating a profound impression in Hongkong.

GERMAN CANNIBAL.

HUMAN FLESH AS "GOAT-MEAT"

The bonfire made by the police of the effects of the Muensterberg cannibal, Karl Denke, apparently marks the close of the official investigation of the career of this ghoul-like monster. The object of the holocaust was to prevent gruesome relics from finding their way into the hands of showmen or morbid collectors. Following the case of the Hapover vampire, Haarmann, that of Denke has left in the public mind an uncomfortable sense that human life is very insecure in Berlin. Muensterberg has only 8,000 inhabitants, and in a town of that size people generally know all about their neighbours' goings and comings. Yet, living in a small Jerry-built tenement house, of which he was the owner, Denke murdered his fellow-creatures in his flat with as much unconcern as if he had been wringing the necks of hens or drowning mice caught in a trap. In broad daylight, apparently without any attempt at concealment, he poured their blood down the sink in the courtyard, and carried trays of their flesh to and from the shed in his garden, where he kept it in a pickling vat. No one seems to have been particularly curious as to the errands he undertook to the surrounding woods in the evenings, laden with bulky sacks and other parcels.

Possibly his long immunity was due to his church connections. Some years ago he filled the office of cross-bearer at Evangelical funerals, and he was also for some time organ-blower in the Lutheran Church. These occupations doubtless gave him access to the Evangelical hostel, where he made the acquaintance of travelling journeymen, from amongst whom most of his victims were selected. How many persons he murdered is not likely to become even approximately known. Among his possessions were found fifteen sets of identification papers, in three of which the names had been rendered illegible. The last entry on one of these documents is dated 1905, from which it is inferred that Denke must have commenced his human butchery nearly a score of years ago—he was 58 when his crimes were discovered. On the other hand, evidence indicated that he had killed three men in the last five or six weeks of his life.

It is not surprising to hear that many people in Muensterberg are suffering from "neurosthenic abdominal pains." Practically no doubt has been left that Denke not only devoured human flesh himself, but also sold it in considerable quantities as "goat-meat," which came largely into use in Germany during the war. A particularly horrible detail of his crimes is that, as concluded from the information collected, he usually struck down his victims when they were consuming a dish of the flesh of their predecessors in this grisly fate. Only last autumn a whole wedding party partook of meat which had been supplied by Denke. Thongs of human skin were found put to many different uses in his rooms.

Feel Young then you will Look Young.

Health means youth. It is absolutely necessary, especially in a hot climate, to look after your health, if you do not want to lose your youth too soon. By infusing into the cells of body and nerves the very elements—phosphorus and albumin—which are wanted, Sanatogen strengthens the nerves, and keeps the whole system in the pink of condition.

A physician says in "The Medical Press and Circular": "Sanatogen is readily absorbed by the stomach and has an immediate and remarkable effect, shown by a steady increase of body weight, and of muscular strength and energy. At the same time the colour is brought back to the patient's cheeks."

PROSAIC HONGKONG.

At Home the question of taxing betting has again arisen. Those who bet, it is urged, should be made to pay for the privilege. The privilege of losing or winning money—a merely the former in the case of a great number of people. The Government has hedged. The old evangelical instinct prevails: betting is gambling, and gambling is evil. In Hongkong no one bets. We think of a number, and $45 sees us through a series of eight races. If we lose our money, it is "rotten luck"; if we win it is but our just due—all too long deferred. This is a respectable way. Even our Brokers can participate in such a harmless method, without their immaculate self-respect being outraged. And we can do this without venturing our presence, unless our clothes warrant it, in the "enclosure" at Happy Valley. There, our numerous voices, their ceaseless, gentlemen invite us to patronise "the old firm." It is all Bonaparte and in order. We take a look at two or three perhaps, and then we call the "house" and the "house" is "closed."

they do in novels—watch the progress of the "horses" towards the winning post, flinging away our tickets with that grace and abandon which would surely have excited the late Nat Gould and prompted him to write a novel round us: "The Hongkong Sport, or the Haunted Valley." Enough. Whilst we continue as we do, the terrors of Lady Astor's tongue are far from us. No one as yet pawns his last shirt and bides in his room awaiting the result of the principal race with a cup of poison and a loaded revolver at hand. We take our losses, and perhaps our winnings, very sadly. Vive les race meetings!

Fifteen Per Cent.

We are inclined to think this Rents Ordinance business has been badly handled. We question if it has been "good business" to divulge at this stage what the recommendation of the appointed Committee is to be. It pleases no one—certainly not the landlord class. The tenant class will only regard it as the "thin end." The Chairman of the Committee is said to have received at least a thousand letters. In the space of a fortnight these have been read, tabulated, many of them translated, and the whole, presumably considered by the Committee. Such a strenuous, herculean, superhuman accomplishment leaves us amazed—we do not say amused—the matter is too serious. A thousand letters does not convey the united feeling on this particular subject. The proposed fifteen per cent. is safe to say, does, or is likely to do. In a simple understandable phrase it is neither fish, flesh, fowl, or good red herring—although it smacks of a red herring. The Rents Ordinance should be removed in its entirety without any fifteen per cent. frills. Machinery should be set up to deal with cases of hardship—or where property owners feel they have a grievance. This is only fair and is simplicity itself. Why not be simple—and sincere?

also, much of the 15 per cent. increase recommended for payment to the landlord in the case of a tenant's failure to pay the rent, is a result of the landlord's putting it in so many words himself in placing at the door of the principal tenant the cause of all the trouble. His condemnation of the tenant who charges for furniture in a furnished flat on the basis of paying for a year or so's rent is praiseworthy, and he was no doubt actuated by the best of motives in so expressing himself. But here is the point which will occur to many who read the figures given to show that the increase in cost of repairs will more than eat up the increase of rent the landlords will be allowed to charge if the Rents Committee's recommendations go through—will the sub-tenant be any better off than he is now if control were removed and the landlord had full power over his property? If a 15 per cent. increase is not considered sufficient by the landlords then would not the position of the sub-tenant be very much that of the fish which jumped out of the frying pan into the fire?

"A Superior Purzon."

The earlier characteristics of the grand manner, which made him a somewhat lofty undergraduate, were maintained by Lord Curzon to the last. It was his superior, aristocratic manner which made him perhaps the most perfect Indian Viceroy that England has ever sent to her distant possession. He was indeed the King's representative to a resplendent degree. But the manner seems to have had its drawbacks. As Foreign Secretary in a former Administration, it is alleged this inherent sense of superiority did more harm than good when it came to negotiating with democratic, hard-headed types of socialism in a world made different by the Great War. But let not this detract from any word concerning his services to his country. He was of Irish extraction, and the temperament of those from Ireland is ever vivid and forceful. He served in different posts in all of which his great and natural gifts were brought into play. His services to literature must also be taken into account. Early in life it was permitted him to travel the world. His sketches of these travels are in existence proving that what politics gained, literature lost. As a speaker his superior manners were again in evidence, but the writer of this short note remembers listening with a held interest to his rounded periods in a speech of faultless English to a crowded audience which doubtless held not a few opponents to his political line of thought.

VISITING HONGKONG.

"GRENFELL OF LABRADOR" HERE.

An interesting visitor to the Colony is Dr. W. T. Grenfell, M.D., C.M.G., "Grenfell of Labrador" as he is popularly called.

Dr. Grenfell was educated at Marlborough, Oxford, and the London Hospital, where he was house surgeon to the late Sir Frederick Treves. At Oxford he played Rugby football for the University.

Dr. Grenfell fitted out the first hospital ship for the North Sea fisheries and cruised with the fishermen from the Bay of Biscay to Iceland. He went to Labrador in 1892 where he built four hospitals, a series of co-operative stores, an orphanage and a school, and started numerous small industrial schemes; in 1912 he opened in St. John's, Newfoundland, the King George the Fifth Seamen's Institute, the money for which he had raised during the previous ten years.

Dr. Grenfell is well known as a writer. His best-known books are: "Adrift on a Pack of Ice," "The Autobiography of a Labrador Doctor," "Tales of Labrador," and "Labrador Days." He has written many articles and monographs on deep-sea fisheries, fishermen, and work among them.

With the consent of the Bishop of Victoria, Dr. Grenfell will speak at the Cathedral on Sunday morning, March 22, at 11 a.m., and at St. Andrew's, Toronto, at 8 p.m.

WHITE FOR SORROW. HONGKONG FUNERAL PROCESSIONS. CURIOUS CHINESE CUSTOMS.

Giant Images to Scare Away Evil Spirits.

How many Europeans can distinguish a funeral procession from a wedding procession without looking at the tail-end to see whether a coffin or a bridal chair is following behind?

Just as the Chancellor of the Exchequer receives a windfall when the very rich die, so does the Hongkong caterer for funeral paraphernalia reap his harvest when he organises a monster procession to accompany the remains of some wealthy personage to the last resting place.

seeds they hold are two pretty Chinese damsels, dressed to personify female sanctities who supposedly pave the way for a smooth passage to heaven. In front of the coffin is a man in a long white gown, holding in his hands a pole supporting the end of a long white curtain. He Sometimes as many as twenty-four bearers carry the bier in a Chinese funeral procession.

It is not uncommon for Chinese to make special provision in their wills for a funeral and the ceremonies immediately following. Social position, official rank and affluence are all denoted in the funeral. In the days of the monarchy, a mandarin's funeral would always be preceded by a number of boards setting forth his rank and titles. Even to-day, some of these boards with only courtesy titles given for payment is a "tong kwoon"—a sort of master of ceremonies at funerals, weddings, and other celebrations or services—who cultivates an effeminate bearing to be successful at his profession. Concealed from the public eye are the principal mourners who walk along inside the curtains of white cloth. Our second picture shows the giant images which are borne along in front of a funeral to drive away evil spirits. The first is a of money, are brought out in all their glory.

Instead of floral tributes, friends and relatives send scrolls with characters extolling the virtues of the deceased person. Latterly, with the advent of western influence, the custom is changing. Flowers, wreaths, and scrolls of white cloth are gradually taking the place of valuable pieces of silk. Some of the coffins are very costly, as much as $1,000 or more.

Occupying a leading position in a funeral are two large oil-paper lanterns on which are painted the surname of the family and the dead person's age. It is a fixed custom to add three years to the real age.

PATH OF DEATH TORNADO'S FEARFUL HAVOC TERRIBLE FIVE MINUTES

Small Towns That Were Wiped Out.

Fearful havoc was wrought by the tornado which swept across Southern Illinois in little more than five minutes.

FLATTENED LIKE PANCAKES (Reuter's American Service.)

Springfield, March 20.

All the resources of the Red Cross Society have been placed at the disposal of the victims in the tornado, which appears to have lasted scarcely five minutes. It occurred in the middle of the afternoon when schools, shops and factories were full, with the result that buildings were razed like pancakes and buried the victims in the burning ruins. An eyewitness, graphically describing the vast tableau of death and destruction, says that the firemen realised the hopelessness of coping with the flames, forsook their hoses and turned their attention to rescue. He mentions the curious effect that every tree and fence which was left standing, was bedecked with garments and bed clothing entangled therein.

Mountains of debris.

Chicago, March 20.

Between rows of dead, many of whom are school children and some babies, long queues of people from the tornado zone passed yesterday through improvised mortuaries searching for missing relatives and friends, while rescuers delved incessantly into the mountains of debris under the glare of searchlights and bonfires, hoping to find survivors or extricate dead.

The havoc along the course of the tornado, from Missouri to Indiana is awful. Some small towns have virtually been obliterated.

Entire blocks of buildings in the larger places have been levelled.

Fires broke out in many places, increasing the horror of the situation.

Heavy Death Roll.

Deaths are estimated still at well over 800 with three thousand injured, many perhaps fatally.

It is impossible yet to attempt to estimate the damage done, but

FULL COURSE TRIAL.

(Reuter's Service.)

LONDON, March 20.

Cambridge rowed a full-course trial to-day in 19 minutes, 30 seconds.

Conditions were good with a following wind and slight rain. The boat shot past Hammer-smith Bridge in 11 minutes, 15 seconds. They spurred towards Putney Bridge and finished fresh and not fatigued. The coach was most pleased.

Oxford watched from Black's Wharf and are due for a full-course trial to-morrow.

[The annual "Battle of the Blues" is to take place next Saturday, March 28. From the meagre advice to hand, the Light Blues are favourites this year.]

Paris, March 20.—The Chinese general, Hsu, accompanied by Cheng Lo, visited the Le Bourget aerodrome—Havas.

It will certainly reach millions of dollars.

Relief work is proceeding everywhere under the control of the federal and state governments, and the Red Cross. Soldiers are patrolling the various places.

It is feared that disease, especially tetanus, may break out in the stricken districts. The Red Cross has asked that 600 tubes of anti-tetanus serum be despatched by aeroplane to Murphysboro without delay.

FRENCH CHAMBER SCENES.

FIGHT WITH FISTS.

"GRAVE INSULT TO WHOLE OF CHRISTENDOM."

(Reuter's Service.)

PARIS, March 20.

In the Chamber of Deputies this evening scenes of almost unparalleled violence, in which deputies freely indulged in fistfights, ended the hitherto most orderly debate on the withdrawal of the embassy at the Vatican.

The sitting was suspended.

The trouble arose out of M. Herriot's statement in winding up the debate in admitting the good work Catholicism had done in the past and adding: "Then it was pure Catholicism not the bankers' Catholicism of to-day."

On the resumption of the debate the Rightist Marquis de Feronays, who protested that the Premier's remark was a grave insult to the whole of Christendom, was ordered to leave the Chamber.

When he refused the uproar was renewed and the sitting was again suspended.

PREMIER'S WARNING.

On the further resumption of the debate M. Herriot was able to conclude his speech without interruption. He declaimed against the Cardinal's recent denunciation of the Government's laicity laws which precipitated the debate and declared the prelates spoke of violating the law. The Government would protect religion that confined itself to its spiritual mission.

M. Herriot warned the Rightists, "false Republicans," not to touch the laicity laws.

Subsequently the chamber passed a vote of confidence in the Government by 325 to 251 votes.

INDIA'S SALT TAX.

COMPANY MEETING.

A. S. WATSON & CO. LTD.

SUCCESSFUL YEAR.

Mr. H. Humphreys presided at to-day's annual meeting of A. S. Watson & Co. Ltd. held at the Hongkong Hotel. Others present were: Messrs. J. Scott, Harston, H. P. White and J. A. Tarrest, secretary; also the following shareholders: Messrs. H. W. Bird, G. W. Sewell, J. M. Alves, J. D. Humphreys, F. W. Stapleton, D. E. Clarke, W. Wilson, W. Morley and J. M. Wong.

CHAIRMAN'S SPEECH.

Gentlemen,—I propose with your permission to take the Report, Statement of Accounts and Auditors' Report as read.

The net profit for the year under review is $137,499.44 less than that of the previous year. Last year you may remember we made a profit of $61,834.00 on the sale of our Stanley Street Warehouse, a profit which obviously is non-recurrent. The strike in Canton last year and the floods in the West River Delta very seriously affected the profits of our Shamen branch. When these circumstances are taken into consideration, the profits for the twelve months ended October 31, 1924, do not fall much below those of the previous year, which, it must be borne in mind, was easily a record one in the history of the Company. The only items in the accounts which appear to me to call for special comment are the large increases under the headings of Total Stocks in Trade and Land at Honam, Canton. As regards the former, the Canton strike is largely if not entirely responsible. In order to cope with the expanding business of our Canton branch, we ordered more largely than usual for their requirements, which, owing to the strike, resulted in a lock up of stocks that were not needed. However, these stocks will be utilised this year, and enable us to reduce our indebtedness. As regards the latter, the addition of $45,700.75 is represented by final payment for land of $35,700.75 and first payment on account of building and filling of $10,000.

The alterations at our North Point Factory in Hongkong involved demolishing a large sorting shed and the $20,000 we propose writing off Marine Lot No. 293 represents in round figures, the approximate value of the sorting shed.

I trust the appropriations to Reserve Fund, Staff Provident Fund and Chinese Staff Superannuation Fund meet with your approval.

I have no further remarks to make, Gentlemen, and I now propose that the Report and Statement of Accounts as presented be passed. When the motion is duly seconded, I shall be pleased to answer any questions shareholders may have to ask.

Mr. H. W. Bird seconded the adoption of the report and accounts which were passed unanimously.

Sir Paul Chater, Mr. J. Scott Harston and Mr. H. P. White retired automatically as directors and were re-appointed on the proposition of the Chairman seconded by Mr. J. M. Alves.

Messrs. C. Bernard Brown and H. Greenwood were re-appointed auditors on the proposition of Mr. D. E. Clarke seconded by Mr. F. W. Stapleton.

CORRESPONDENCE.

SENTENCE CRITICISED.

(To the Editor of the China Mail.)

Sir,—It is somewhat amusing to read of the sentence imposed on the soldier for damaging a tailor's property at Spring Garden Lane in the recent case brought before the Central Magistrate, namely 50 cents, the bare cost of an electric bulb—the damaged property in question.

Recently Hongkong has experienced a great deal of trouble of this kind and it is to be regretted that Magistrates take such a lenient view of the offences when the culprits are arraigned before them. In the case in question, the imposition of a fine covering the intrinsic value of the damaged property without considering the seriousness of the offence, of unwarranted entry into the premises would far from acting as a deterrent, but an inducement to others of his ilk to repeat such acts with impunity.

Unless some drastic punishment is meted out by these offenders, the safety and privacy of householders in Hongkong would be imperilled and it is to be hoped therefore that those who dispose the law will take a more serious view of these offences.

Yours etc.
HONGKONG, March 19.

COMPANY REPORT.

DOUGLAS STEAMSHIP CO. LTD.

After paying all running expenses, docking charges, premia of insurance, allowances for leave and pensions of the floating staff and writing off $70,000 for depreciation of the steamers and other properties for the year, there remains a balance at credit of Profit and Loss Account of $90,319.27 which subject to the approval of shareholders it is proposed to deal with as follows:

To pay a dividend of 8 per cent. ($4 per share)	$80,000.00
To transfer to Reserve Fund	319.27
	$80,319.27

$25,000 has transferred from the Reserve Fund for special repairs, and the installation of second class accommodation in s.s. Haihong and alterations to steamers to conform with the Piracy Prevention Regulations.

Minor accidents to steamers Haihing and Haiyang necessitated the withdrawal of $12,520.78 from the Company's underwriting account to meet the cost of the necessary repairs.

Consulting Committee:—Mr. D. G. M. Bedford resigned from the Committee on his departure for home and Mr. E. D. F. Bell was invited to fill the vacancy. Mr. Mackie also resigned and the Hon. Mr. A. O. Lang has been asked to fill his place.

The Committee now consists of Mr. E. D. F. Bell, Mr. W. E. Clark and the Hon. Mr. A. O. Lang who retire but offer themselves for re-election.

Dividends:—The accounts have been audited by Messrs. Lowe, Bingham and Matthews and Messrs. Lindsay and Davis, who certify and confirm the same for the year ended 31st December, 1924.

FORD CURZON DEAD.

NOTED STATESMAN ENDED.

FORMER INDIAN VICEROY.

"One of the Greatest Englishmen of His Day."

A Rauter cable from London announces the death of Lord Curzon, Lord President of the Council and Leader of the House of Lords.

"One of the greatest Englishmen of his day" was the description given by the Earl of Bickenhead to George Nathaniel Curzon, K.G., G.C.S.I., G.C.I.E., M.A., F.R.S., D.C.L., LL.D., J.P., D.L., Marquess Curzon, Baron Scarsdale, Baron Ravensdale, Viscount Scarsdale, Earl Curzon of Kedleston, who was born on January 11, 1859, and was thus 66 years of age. He had a career of the utmost distinction.

The briefest summary of his activities and of the offices which he held will make this abundantly plain. His career at Oxford was one of almost unbroken successes. The Lothian and the Arnold Prizes rewarded his efforts as an essayist, and a Fellowship of All Souls College crowned a series of academic successes, which was only marred by his failure to obtain a first class in Greats.

He was President of the Oxford Union in 1880. In 1885 he was appointed assistant private secretary to the late Lord Salisbury, and later he acted as correspondent of "The Times" in the East.

From 1891-2 he was Under-Secretary of State for India, and from 1895-8 Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs. From 1899-1905 he was Viceroy of India.

Of his term as Viceroy the "Times" in a eulogistic character sketch, said, inter alia:—

"He had every qualification that knowledge and study could give him for the highest post in Asia; character, too, enormous industry, and an intellectual conscientiousness as sensitive to a mistake as to a wound. Above all, he had the loftiest ideal of Imperial duty. He became Viceroy of India at 39, and the country was proud to send a Viceroy with so many qualifications. At last an expert was called to government."

"And yet when all is said the Viceroyalty was the end of an old epoch, and it was reserved for others to begin the new. The very virtues of his government threw into bolder relief the discovery that even in the East the days were gone by when any people will be content to let any other play the part of an earthly providence to them."

"No one went to India from England knowing so much as Lord Curzon; yet of the new chapters in the British history of Asia, one was begun by a very Western Liberal, Lord Morley, another by a doctrinaire Jew, yet another by Mark Sykes and a handful of British officers; a fourth, and yet a fifth chapter, in Egypt, by Lord Milner, that in the Peace negotiations inevitably deprived him of a large measure of the authority which a Foreign Minister would ordinarily enjoy. And a long series of later conferences, which from time to time became necessary, raised issues which had become too grave, and too cosmopolitan to be dealt with by any particular department. And it must also be remembered that some at least of the struggles in which he failed were determined by the swaying Russian struggle and by the Bolshevik triumph—be it fugitive or lasting—which ultimately emerged. Seldom has a Foreign Secretary been able to move with more restricted range within the ambit of that dignified building."

Brilliantly gifted by nature, Lord Curzon always worked immensely hard, and his knowledge is profound and accurate.

His first wife, whom he married in 1895 and who died in 1906, was the beautiful Mary Leiter, of Chicago, by whom he had three daughters, and his second wife, whom he married in 1917, was the beautiful Mrs. Dugan, of Buenos Aires.

He was certainly a man with full sense of his own dignity. When at Oxford his grand manner induced a wag to write to him:

My name is George Nathaniel Curzon, I am a most superior person; My hair is sleek, and smooth, my cheek, I dine at Blenheim twice a week.

Lord Curzon was pursued by that verse all his life.

The heir to the Viscountcy is Richard N. Curzon, his nephew, who is 27 years of age; the heiress to the Barony is his eldest daughter, Lady Mary Irene Curzon; and there is no heir to the Marquisate.

EMPRESS OF FRANCE ARRIVES

"A PERFECT SHIP"

WHAT THE VISITORS WILL SEE HERE.

The Empress of France with 291 globe-trotters drew alongside Kowloon wharf this morning. Given favourable weather conditions, the visitors are assured of a good time with a comprehensive programme of entertainment and excursion trips until they leave here on Wednesday morning. They will be free until 5.30 this afternoon when a motor trip round the island will start from the Hongkong Hotel. A halt will be made at Repulse Bay Hotel where they will be the guests at a Chinese dinner. Sunday will be spent by a trip to the Peak and tiffin at the Hongkong Hotel. The afternoon will be free. Visits to Canton and entertainments at the Hongkong Hotel complete the programme for the next two days.

Leaving New York on January 14, the liner has touched at all the important ports on the Mediterranean, thence through Suez to Bombay, Colombo, Singapore, Padang, Batavia, and Manila. The remainder of the itinerary will be Shanghai (with visits to Peking), Japan, Hawaii, Victoria, Vancouver, San Francisco, Balboa, Colon, Havana, and back to New York on May 28, when as a journey of some 30,000 miles will have been covered in about 130 days. On May 26 the liner will resume her trans-Atlantic run to Southampton.

Unique in the cruising business, the Canadian Pacific is the only steamship company operating its own cruises. The present cruise is under the personal direction of Mr. P. D. Sutherland (Special Representative of Passenger Traffic, Montreal) who has for eighteen years represented the Canadian Pacific in the Orient. In addition there are a number of other officers from the organization in Canada and the United States travelling as assistant directors. The ship has its social hostess, a lady assisting in entertainments, a Press representative and a photographer.

Capt. E. Griffiths, R.N.R., is in command, with a crew of 431 including 45 officers.

"A PERFECT SHIP."

When built twelve years ago, the Empress of France was known as the "perfect ship." Because of her excellence the Prince of Wales, in making his visit to Canada in 1923, selected the Empress of France for both crossings. He declared at that time that she was "the best appointed ship on any ocean."

No cruise passenger sleeps in anything but a bed. Every modern facility has been provided, which with the large public rooms on the upper decks make it an easy equal of any cruising vessel. The lounge, which also becomes the ballroom in the evening, is in the style designed by Sir Christopher Wren for the Royal apartments at Hampton Court palace. It has an 18-foot ceiling, six large bow windows and a magnificent skylight extending its full length. It is hung with paintings by George Lambert, the Australian artist, under which are fine carvings by Grinling Gibbons and Mark Rogers, two of the most celebrated wood carvers in England.

The smoking room is one of the most handsome rooms on any ship. It is in two tiers and is of the King James period. The staircases and corridors, as also are those of the dining saloon, are in the early Jacobean style. The other public rooms are fully as striking.

The ship is 600 feet long, 72 feet wide, with a gross tonnage of 18,400 tons and displacement of 27,800 tons. She was recently converted into an oil burner solely for cruising purposes. Last July, soon after being reconditioned, she established a new world's record across the Atlantic between Cherbourg and Quebec, making the crossing in 5 days 8 hours 51 minutes, an average speed of 20.43 knots an hour. She has maintained her schedule throughout the present cruise easily, with several knots always in reserve.

The liner has accommodation for 1,896 passengers. On the present cruise only one-fifth of that number is being carried, assuring ample space and the maximum in comfort and satisfaction. The local office is booking additional passengers for the rest of the voyage and unique facilities are offered to holiday makers including the overland route across Canada.

Amongst the 291 aboard are 197 Americans, representing twenty-two states, 112 Britons from England, Canada and India, 2 Czechs, 1 Slovakian and 1 Swede.

WELSH NOTES

EDUCATIONAL AUTONOMY

[BY "APREYS"]

Quite a large percentage of Welsh people in Hongkong are directly concerned with education and they have no doubt followed with interest the controversy raging over the Central Welsh Board. Protests are continually being made by leaders of opinion in Wales as to the ill effects of centralism from Whitehall over matters educational in Wales and arguments advanced on behalf of the restoration of educational autonomy in the Principality.

The challenging speech of the Archbishop of Wales on the subject has been given a great deal of publicity. In his opinion educational appointments from high academic posts to the lowest scholastic ones have in many cases been scandalously managed in Wales during recent years. Personal relations and sectarian and political considerations are said to have been too often the determining factors, to the exclusion of considerations of character and achievement.

The Welsh Outlook comments on the position as follows: We could, it called upon, give instances of College departments and of whole schools which have been ruined for years as a result of these obnoxious influences. There are many outstanding Welshmen and Welshwomen who at this critical hour are reluctant to join in the fray because they fear that complete freedom and the loosening of outside and independent control will only make matters worse in this respect. They wonder whether disguised slavery may not be preferable to the blatant tyranny of ignorance and influence.

"We must set our faces like flint against this growing tendency," the article concludes. "The most effective weapon against it is fearless exposure and we shall not hesitate to use it. One of the most interesting of black lists in Wales would be that of the influential men who, for a generation, have been saddling nobodies who were their friends or relations in positions of eminence and importance in our national life."

A CHESS CLUB.

OFFICERS OF NEW CLUB.

A good number of chess enthusiasts attended the first meeting of the newly formed Kowloon Chess Club at the Central British School yesterday, the chief business being the election of officers.

Although it is the Kowloon Chess Club, membership is open to residents of Hongkong as well as Kowloon. It was decided at the meeting that membership be also open to lady enthusiasts who may desire to join. Meetings will be held every Friday night in the hall of the Central British School at 8 p.m. The subscription, including entrance fee for the first year was fixed at $5, with the right of amendment if necessary.

The following officials were elected: President, Mr. O. F. Nightingale, headmaster of the Central British School; Captain, Mr. A. Brooksbank; Secretary, Mr. S. Hadden; Treasurer, Mr. B. Kern. The committee, including the other officials, is composed of Messrs. W. Patterson, D. Carvalho, J. Salter and S. Hayes.

THEFT CHARGE.

The charge of theft of $6,600 in Straits Settlements bank notes against Ngan Sui-chik, an employee of the Societe Francaise de Gerance, was continued before Mr. J. R. Wood at the Central Magistracy yesterday.

Mr. M. H. Turner appeared for the prosecution and Mr. M. K. Lo defended. The case for the prosecution having closed, Mr. Lo opened his defence. The accused, giving evidence, said that during the whole time of the making up of the parcels he was sitting opposite the European clerk and did not leave his desk. He knew nothing about the theft, nor could he explain the presence of cuttings from exercise books bearing his children's handwriting in the parcel which was supposed to have contained the notes.

The essence of the evidence for the defence was that the paper was thrown away by the children and was most probably picked up and substituted for the money by another party.

The case was adjourned. Scotland is slightly less in gross output than the reference in 1924. The same output will be followed as this year. An earlier date will be made, the falling output being for December.

ONLY FOURTEEN DAYS MORE IN OUR POPULARITY CAMPAIGN.

Commencing to-day and ending Saturday, March 28, the China Mail and Sunday Herald enter into the 4th period which enables every contestant who turns in $100 in subscriptions to procure 100,000 votes in addition to the regular subscription votes. This being absolutely the last special offer, every contestant should make a final effort to get at least one bonus which may be the very deciding factor to win the prize motor car.

With only fourteen more days to run, the Campaign is fast drawing to a close. All arrangements regarding the formal closing of the Campaign, the final counting of votes and the distribution of prizes having been duly announced, all contestants should now concentrate their whole attention towards the ways and means of securing all special offers, and facilities which will give them the maximum number of votes for the last subscription they may turn in.

Call at the Campaign Department as frequently as possible to get the officers there to show you how to place yourself in the lead of this interesting race.

In order to concentrate attention and interest of the public the most prospective winners of the prizes, names of contestants who have not received at least one bonus or three years' subscriptions to the China Mail will be dropped from the list of March 31. This, however, does not by any means deprive the dropped members their privilege to continue in the race, for as soon as they turn in $100 in subscriptions their names will be immediately reinstated together with their previous votes.

Get busy and qualify yourself to win a prize!

DYCK'S PIANO RECITAL

REMARKABLE HONGKONG PERFORMANCE.

Felix Dyck's pianoforte recital in the City Hall last night seemed all too short, although it included items in number and quality a little out of the ordinary. The player has personality and brings to mind Mark Hambourg whom he resembles somewhat. The programme opened with Schumann's Carnaval op. 9, a piece split up into innumerable parts each with its own distinctive style and atmosphere. Mr. Dyck surmounted whatever difficulties the Carnaval possesses—his technique is superb but it can be said of his playing that the true interpretation of the born artist is not sacrificed on the altar of brilliant execution. The series of shorter pieces perhaps charmed mostly. And here the writer hesitates to choose. They were all splendid—all delightfully given. Chopin was represented by three pieces including the delightful Nocturne in F sharp, op. 15, and the inimitable Polonaise in A flat, op. 23. The audience was carried away with this interpretation of majesty remains. "The American MacDowell's 'Witches' Dance' conveyed the meaning of its title, and the same can be said of Cyril Scott's 'Lotusland.' Here surely was the hand of Egypt brought to the mind's eye. Moszkowski's 'Etincelles (Sparks), a wonderfully effective piece, concluded a cycle of four impressive and diverse compositions. The programme concluded with 'Love Dream' and the popular 'Rigoletto Fantasy' both by Liszt.

The audience was enthusiastic and Mr. Dyck readily responded with two encores. A chat with Mr. Dyck elicited the fact that he has been offered the Professorship of Piano-playing in the Tokyo Imperial Academy of music.

THE ENSEMBLE IDEA MATCHES THE SWEATER WITH HOSIERY

BY BARBARA WINSLOW

PHOTOS BY JOEL FEDER

NO OUTFIT IS COMPLETE WITHOUT A COAT OF FUR

THE TUNIC NOTE IS SOUNDED IN A CLEVER OUTFIT

ESSENTIALLY INDIVIDUAL AS ALL SPORT CLOTHES SHOULD BE

THE TAILORED NOTE.

Through the sympathy of rich fabrics, exotic colours and exquisite trimmings the tailored note is sounded—a theme around which the entire composition may be said to be written. It is whispered that the Parisian designers who are sponsoring the very decided vogue for tailored things have been inspired by the drawings of an American artist and the Gibson girl is providing ideas. We care little what the source may be when the result is so eminently satisfactory, and we accept the slim lines, trim details and general air of simplicity that make up the tailored ensemble with grateful appreciation of the general fitness of the mode. This tailored influence touches suits, frocks, coats, skirts, blouses, and all the garments that are a part of the sports mode, as well as the accessories that complement and complete them. Whenever there is simplicity of the youthful sort it is bound to prove successful—the subtler ways to simplicity have less of youth about them. Straight line frocks, of Kashmir, tweed, flannel and jersey, and the simpler models in printed silk or crepe and the tub silks, are a part of this tailored mode and the costume ensemble devoted to the idea. The long, slim coats and straight line dresses lend themselves to exquisite tailoring, and along with these costume suits, go the short-coated, short-skirted, two-piece suits of twills, tweeds and mammoth suitings. The latter boast double breasted coats; velvet collars; smart pique folds, and the skirts are very short and very slim. Coats of flannel, Kashmir, tweed or velveteen are tailored in new and flattering ways, and the sports mode is bound to be a success—it will be one of the most pronounced vogues of spring.

IT HAPPENS SO OFTEN.

One, he loved; two, he loved; Three, he loved, they say; Four, he loved with all his heart; And with it got away; But number five was up-to-date; And now the gallant tarries; The stern relentless warder; guest; We doubt he ever marries.

You Will Find Good Fellowship in the Sports of the Land of Snow-Covered Mountains and Ice-Coated Valleys—And You Must Be Appropriately Garbed.

The subject of what sort of a vacation one shall take is like all subjects—a matter of personal taste and opinion. This is fortunate, for the world would be a most uninteresting place were we all to wear the same colour, drive the same car, prefer exactly the same hours of days that must, of a necessity, be the same on the calendar. In regard to mid-winter vacations opinions are very decided—and divided—which makes this an interesting time of the year from the point of view of fashion. Some are going South—to sunbathing land, others are going North—to snow land, and yet others—many others—are staying home. And whether it be Palm Beach or Miami, it is the Lake Placid or Quebec—paint and inspire, or if it be home and no vacation except weekends, clothes are interesting, for they are presenting many possibilities and no small number of probabilities. The clever woman, with an eye for the varying moods of an always vacillating mode, finds much to interest and to use in clothes designed for Southern wear; in vogues introduced for Northern wear; in the present-day and advance models, the two to a certain extent, synonymous. Sports clothes are no longer of a place, time or season; they belong to us all by virtue of their practical adaptability, and they meet the needs of many activities that have nothing to do with sports. But we will assume, for the moment, that you are planning a winter sports vacation that will include skiing, tobogganing, skating, snow-shoeing and dog or bob-sledding. And we will also assume that there will be dancing, dining and good-fellowship indoors. What, then, has fashion for you?

The Winter Sports Mode A Stunning One.

One hardly knows where to begin to even hint describe the colourful array of smart apparel that is yours to choose from in assembling a winter sports wardrobe. In the riot of colour and the broad expanse of soft fabrics one must be careful not to lose sight of the practicality that assures comfort, the latter broadened to mean warmth and freedom of action. You may be an expert at all the really active sports that winter sponsors—more likely you are not—but even so you are likely to get a spill or two in the course of a day's pleasure, and you must be able to save yourself broken bones and bad bruises. Even more fundamental than that—you will not be expert if you haven't freedom, so wear the attractive outfit, eye-catching in its colourful smartness, that does not permit the necessary liberty of movement. There must be practical, then, these outfits, but they must, as well, be smart; which presents a problem that is astonishingly easy to solve—thanks to fashion. In every smart shop you will find all sorts of suits, coats, knickers, breeches, and all the accessories that go to make up an outfit. And you can, if you wish, assemble your own outfit or you can buy it already assembled. There is a great opportunity for individuality in sports attire as in any department of dress; more perhaps, and to select, match colours or arrange contrasts in a work of love. Again the note of practicality should be sounded: this time in special relation to fabrics—they must be warm; not too heavy, yet heavy enough. They will not be practical if they are of inferior quality, remember that; for they will get hard-worn and they will be exposed to the sun, wind and rain, and they will be especially so if they are wet.

Colour? Any colour at all that becomes you will become winter, the more brilliant the better for the picture. Any colour that you can find in the flannels, suede cloths, velveteen or velvets, corduroys, tweeds and leathers that are the accepted sports fabrics, surprisingly light of weight for the warmth and protection they give. You may prefer a skirt and knickers—not as smart, to fashion's way of thinking, as coat and breeches; you may like a sweater better than a coat; you may wear one of the glorified wind-breakers made of suede and trimmed alluringly in colour, and no coat at all; fashion does not care. Tunic, coat, sweater, wind-breaker, it is nothing to her so you are trig, and trim, and warm and free!

What the sports Trousseau Should Contain. The correct outfit will include some sort of an assembled costume—really an ensemble, and it will be made up according to one's personal inclinations in the matter. It may boast a skirt—if so, it will be flared or pleated that it may give freedom, it may have only the briefest and most generously tailored of breeches and jackets—of leather, more than likely; it may be a knitted outfit. But there will be, at least one, an ensemble costume as a foundation on which is built the wardrobe of practical usefulness. There will be sweaters, for who ever heard of a winter sports wardrobe that did not contain at least one, and probably more, of these satisfying garments? Entire outfits of soft wool have a genuine appeal to the active woman, who recognizes the value of their lightness and warmth.

A spill into the soft, feathery snow can be a very amusing thing; or it may be very uncomfortable. Repeated tumbles teach the value of fastenings that are cold-repelling and waterproofed, and the impracticability of snug, yet comfortable fitting hosiery, shoes, gloves and caps. Snuggly haced, the shoes must be warmly interlined, and the hosiery of wool, especially smart the skating socks of soft wool in bright colours or white, knit especially for skating or skiing with tops that roll over the shoe tops. Wool gloves are, all ways, the warmest, for they permit the freedom that is imperative to safety, and also permit the blood to circulate, warding off cold. Cap and scarf sets—also of wool, there seems no end to the value placed on this fabric. And, justly, too, for the entire suit of colourful warmth-without-weight knitted wear has no rival for either comfort or smartness.

Just by way of contrast we have an outfit planned for the Southern vacationist and one for her who adores the thrill of skiing. In essentials of line they differ but little, though they must differ, of course, in weight. The ensemble idea appears in the golf outfit, linking hosiery with sweater, the latter worn over a lingerie blouse. The idea of comfort is expressed in the costume, and there is nothing to hinder the excellence of play. The tunic idea, linking hosiery with sweater, the latter worn over a lingerie blouse. The idea of comfort is expressed in the costume, and there is nothing to hinder the excellence of play. The tunic idea, linking hosiery with sweater, the latter worn over a lingerie blouse. The idea of comfort is expressed in the costume, and there is nothing to hinder the excellence of play.

For those who take no part in the active sports but join in what may aptly be termed the sport of looking on, there are many modes. They combine much of the grace, colour and freedom of true sports models with all that is best of styles in general, giving due heed to warmth, since the wearer may not depend upon her occupation to keep her warm. For her the skirt worn over knickers with blouse or sweater, the sports suit or the one-piece dress, the cold-repelling and waterproofed, and the impracticability of snug, yet comfortable fitting hosiery, shoes, gloves and caps. Snuggly haced, the

DID YOU KNOW—

THAT the turtle-neck sweater, not new, by any means—is nevertheless, the very smartest of sweater fashions? It varies in weight and colouring to meet the several purposes for which it is designed.

THAT the new skirts of Kashmir fabric wear plants or otherwise camouflage the fullness that is imperative, these days?—And they are either natural, beige or gray in colour, so they may be worn with everything.

THAT the familiar blazer stripe has returned, not only in flannel fabrics but in silk, the latter showing the stripe in rayon—known to the laywoman as artificial silk? Coloured grounds, as well as white, are used.

THAT the sports models incline to the shades of the wide hemline—most certainly one place where it should prove useful? Plants and insects may be buttoned down, thus holding in the fullness and giving an appearance of straightness.

THAT every day ribbons grow more prominent as trimmings, lending the brilliance of their metals and silks to frocks and millinery? That new ribbons have the appearance of being lighter in weight?

THAT the advance models of spring shoes include colours and there will be many lovely shades of brown, heavy blue and gray? Red and the very bright colours are prodigally used as trimmings, but not as materials.

COLOR COMMANDS —THE MODE—

Were Webster alive to-day, he would, one feels sure, have difficulty in disposing of the word colour with a cursory definition—"A property depending on the relations of light to the eye." For colour—of Webster's day—and colour as we are coming to know it, seem two very different words, and his pedantic definition would be drowned in the vast dye-pots that are revolutionizing fashion. For colour in general, which means the countless shades of familiar hues; the many variations of the fundamentals—red, orange, yellow, green, blue, indigo and violet, and the innumerable combinations—striking or subtle as the ones may be—of fashion, is easily the dictator of the mode. And to occupy this place in the fashion scheme is to be a power, none will deny the statement. For just noticed! No matter what type of apparel is selected, whether by the active woman, or made the basis of style manuals and magazines, always there is mention made of colour—what is new in it; what of the old is retained or revived; how the old and the new are combined. And so—facing a new season that is already being rehearsed in a Southern setting we are inquisitive concerning the newest shades, we are curious—and our curiosity is justified.

If one were to dispose of the subject in a single sentence she might abridge the data thus—the jewel, pastel, flower and minnow shades, natural, beige and gray; many new and many old shades of brown, blue and green, and black and white; although one finds by referring to Webster once again, that black and white are "destitute of light and incapable of reflecting it," and are not, therefore, colours! This is the colour situation in a nutshell. If you can imagine even a put on closely packed with meat. But it does nothing more than hint, this summary, of the glory that the rich, the glowing, the delicate, the subtle shades cast over the future mode that is fast crystallizing into shape.

The various fashion authorities may differ somewhat in their distribution of the many colours that they all agree in sponsoring, but they admit their value in the mode and their power over the mode. And, in certain principles, they concur, relegating the brilliant plaids, stripes and checks, the gorgeous cretonnes and prints, the neutrals—beige, gray, and natural—brown, and black, and their power over the mode. And, in certain principles, they concur, relegating the brilliant plaids, stripes and checks, the gorgeous cretonnes and prints, the neutrals—beige, gray, and natural—brown, and black, and their power over the mode.

If in doubt as to the range of the pastel shades, they are the soft tones of definite colours—the gray, cream, pale pink, mauve, corn, a cluster of indefinite green. The jewel shades include one for every precious gem, and add to the list moonstone, chalcedony, garnet, turquoise, and opal. The flower shades, and by a stretch of the imagination—silver, gunmetal and zinc! The flower tones are exactly what they're called—which is by way of being a bit unusual—these days, although stress is laid on black, red, and white, and in Paris for bridal gowns on the hyacinth shades of pink and blue, maize, and orchid. One can easily picture these pastel, jewel and flower shades in the premises being but the rainbow colours belong to the sunshine and shadow of daytime hours. Yet, strange as it may seem—though, after all, nothing is really strange any more—there is a distinct vogue for natural, for beige and for gray—all neutrals—and delightful as a background for almost anything—another colour, embroidery, applique or whatever. The subject of colour seems to cover an increasingly enormous range, as new seasons come. A featured shade of a lived-through season may disappear—we are hoping this fate for henna in all its ramifications—but two or three will spring up to take its place, until a new season's colour card has really become a fearsome thing.

It is good news that navy blue is a "new" shade—droll isn't it? Brown, a very great favourite for several seasons now, adds to the golden tan, puce—a pale tan; discretion—a dark tan, and horse—a sorrel, to her list. And there are several grays, greens and purples that are yet unnamed—to the laywoman, at least. Summer is the season of very gay sports coats, and already models in velveteen and cretonne have met with success in the Southern resorts. The former appear in the lower shades of ruby red, sapphire blue, topaz brown and emerald green, and velvet proves a lovely medium for these shades; and the latter are gorgeously coloured and glittering with gold. Black and white, blue and white, blazer stripes on white or coloured backgrounds, plaids, checks, and candy stripes, are prophesied; and the usual value is placed on black, both by the fashion and the sports mode.

The Negligée in Danger!

Consider the bathrobe of other days! sole claimant in the average wardrobe for the title of negligée. Warm it had to be, ugly it was, as a rule, but like many beginnings of lovely things, it was fundamental. And while it no longer makes claim to kinship, except remotely, with the chiffons, silks and laces of the negligée, it exists, in attractive form, for purposes of utility and comfort. A display of negligees is a delightful thing to see, and no matter how practically the practical needs of a woman's life may be met, in the matter of leisure hour attire, she is sure to have at least one daintily conceived, exquisitely coloured gown in her selection of apparel, a gown that she may call, variously, a negligée, a robe, a wrap, a picture gown—what you will. It may be a thing of classic lines, of shimmering, soft straightness of subtle drapes and folds, but it is the delight of her life because of its delicacy, its undeniably classification as a robe in time. In general we call them all negligees, and the word is synonymous with fine fabrics; pastel, jewel, rainbow, flower shades, with graceful lines.

These garments of delight have been years in the process of evolution, and just at a time when they seem to have reached the acme of perfection along comes the pajama—very masculine in its origin—and threatens, not the perfection, but the supremacy of the negligée. The reason, do you ask? There may be many reasons given—the emancipation of women! The vogue of the bob! Tailored influences. But why bother with reasons for a fashion so delightful? For delightful it is in its convenience, its quaintness, its charm; and it is, for the present season, at least, decidedly a vogue. And so it is that the dainty garments in pastel colouring; the superb garments of velvet, satin and brocade; the heavier robes of zanzana, albatross and corduroy are being eclipsed, temporarily, at least, by the pajama suit or the pajama ensemble, the latter inevitable in a fashion time when all the world has gone mad—with reason—over the idea of supplementing one garment with another that matches. There could be no less a thing than this, the most delightful of fashions, for a fashion so delightful? For delightful it is in its convenience, its quaintness, its charm; and it is, for the present season, at least, decidedly a vogue. And so it is that the dainty garments in pastel colouring; the superb garments of velvet, satin and brocade; the heavier robes of zanzana, albatross and corduroy are being eclipsed, temporarily, at least, by the pajama suit or the pajama ensemble, the latter inevitable in a fashion time when all the world has gone mad—with reason—over the idea of supplementing one garment with another that matches.

Some of the most gorgeous of these pajama suits—some know them by the name of lounge or smoking suits—can be very elegant indeed, yet be as practical as they are elegant. Black is extremely well liked for the foundation, and satin is a favourite material. Effective embroideries, appliques and hand-painted designs are used when a coat of deep midnight blue, or a rich red, may be lined with the brilliant colour that provides the trimming note of the pajama suit. Another idea for the woman who craves variety is the "dainty" coloured, soft "wraps" with black trousers, or the black ensemble embroidered beautifully, worn with trousers of metal cloth or brocade. Someone has applied the situation in an interesting way, and drawn the conclusion that the pajama suit and its resulting ensemble will continue as the bodacious apparel of youth, the youth that does not hesitate to wear her smart pajama ensemble on the beach, at the theatre, and the mall; and will remain the favourite of the older woman; but what should we care for distinctions, so long as either is a possibility through the doors of fashion?

clever woman will have no difficulty in finding an effective combination. Quitting has come back into prominence, and while one sees it on wraps for "after wear," one finds it, too, in the pajama mode—and it is possible for the woman who essays to "make her own" to buy quite satin by the yard.

But the pajama suit does drive the negligée from the field—yet—no matter what its purpose or future may be. There are some sumptuous modes being

WORLD OF SPORT.

FAMOUS FOOTBALL CLUBS.

CRADLED UNDER WING OF CHURCH OR CHAPEL.

SOME HUMBLE BEGINNINGS.

It is an interesting and little-known fact that many of our most famous football clubs have been cradled under the wing of church or chapel, writes W. Greenwood.

In 1874, for example, Aston Villa made its modest bow to the world in which it was to become so famous on a piece of waste ground in a local park, the players being youths associated with Aston Villa Wesleyan Chapel. Fortunately they had for their first captain George Ramsay, a young Scotsman, with a rare zeal for and knowledge of the game; and under his auspices the club quickly waxed strong, and soon left far behind it the humble day when its first gate realised a modest five shillings.

It was a number of enthusiastic youths, members of St. Mary's Church Young Men's Christian Association, who combined, one day in 1885, to found the Southampton Club, which has won so many laurels on the football field.
The nickname "The Saints" by which they are so widely known, still proclaims this origin and their president was Canon Wilberforce, the popular sport-loving rector of St. Mary's.

More than forty years have gone since the Everton Club was founded by the boys and young men connected with the Congregational Chapel in St. Domingo Vale, after a few weeks practice with a derelict football—little dreaming, we may be sure, that the name they chose for their modest club would one day stand proudly at the head of all its rivals.

The same year, 1879, saw the birth of Sunderland, which had for its parent James Allan, a Scottish school-teacher. With a few of his fellow dominions Allan formed the Sunderland Teachers' Association, and it was not long before the club's exchequer was enriched by its first gate-money to the extent of six and two pence halfpenny.

In 1881 the club's title was abbreviated to "Sunderland," a name that was destined to rank among the highest in the world of football.

West Ham United had its humble genesis in a Blackwall shipyard, where a few young enthusiasts joined hands to form
the Thames Ironworks Football Club, with the wealthy Mr. A. F.
Hills for patron. Under such auspices they soon began to make a name for themselves; and within a year of adopting the title which they have made so famous, they were at the top of the London League's First Division.

Plymouth Argyle had for its sponsors a few young men from the local solicitors and architects' offices, with a sprinkling of reporters, and made its bow to the public as the Phoenix Football Club; but it was only when it blossomed into Plymouth Argyle that it began to make football history.

Tottenham Hotspur, known throughout the football world as the "Spurs," was in its early days a club of school-boys whose hoarded pennies purchased their first ball.
And Newcastle United had its

THE BIG HITTERS.

ABE MITCHELL AND JACK
SMITH DO WELL.

Abe Mitchell won a driving competition at San Antonio, Texas, with an average drive of 307 yards.
His longest hit was 313 yards.

Jack Smith, the long-driving golf champion, who is assistant to George Duncan at Wentworth Park, again distinguished himself in the holes-bogey competition decided by the Guildford and District Alliance at Bramshot.

During both rounds he was putting for 2's at the sixth hole, which measures 268 yards, and in the second round he reached the 14th green—472 yards—with a drive and a mashie. He won the assistants' prize and tied with J. H. Turner, G. M. Turner and T. Mounce in the open event at four down, and won the handicap contest, playing from scratch.

HIDE AND SEEK.

A FOOTBALL FLOOD
COMEDY AT LIVERPOOL.

Two brave teams went gaily to Liverpool Notts County to play
Everton and their reserves to play
New Brighton Reserves, on the other side of the river. Neither team took bathing suits. Mr. Fogg, the referee, considerably called off the League game (the ground was rather damp), and the Nottingham players crossed the Mersey to watch their pals. Unfortunately, the reserves conceived the same idea, and decided, with the referee's permission, to go and cheer their first eleven. When last heard of, the teams had not met, but it is understood that 22 new swear words have been invented.

SPORTS AND PRO- FESSIONALS.

Can a man who is a professional in one sport be an amateur in another? "No," says the British Olympic Association unanimously.
I sympathise with them in their praiseworthy and extremely difficult task but do let us get right, to begin with, writes a Daily Chronicle man. What they mean is: Can a man, etc., be considered an amateur. In a matter like this words count for much. They must not be used to make us ridiculous.

24 YEARS' INTER- NATIONAL.

It is nearly 24 years since Miss Mabel Bryant first played for England at hockey, and she is still one of the first choices. Her international "caps" number 26, and only S. H. Shoveller and J. H.
Bennett can beat this number. But even they have not been in harness for so long.

origin in the alliance between two rival factions of Newcastle schoolboys, who, as the East End and West End Clubs, fought many a rough and unskilled battle before they decided to bury the hatchet and join forces, with results far beyond their most extravagant dreams.

GOLF.

THE HERTS CHAMPION-SHIP.

F. P. Hall and James Bradbeer, representing the Porters Park Club, of which they are respectively captains and professional, won the Hertfordshire tournament at Porters Park, Badlet, with a return of 6 up bogey in 35 holes.

Alexander Herd—that vigorous veteran of 57 who made his first appearance in the open championship 40 years ago, secured it in 1902, and has been near to winning it again several times in recent years—partnered H. de Fleming Shepherd on behalf of Moor Park.
They had the best chance of all of gaining "first" place, but they missed some golden opportunities on the putting green, and, as a result, were just beaten, their return being 5 up.

Herd was at once the mainstay and delinquent of the side. He made the putting easy for himself by the excellence of his shots with wooden and iron clubs, and then failed near the tin to apply the little finishing touches that would have won several more holes from bogey.

Perhaps he was suffering from a certain self-consciousness. After a lifetime of loyalty to trousers—once the token by which a professional might be distinguished from an amateur in his traditional knicker-boggers—this sturdy member of the old-fashioned school of Scottish professionals made his first appearance in a tournament in plus fours. Brad and Taylor was now about the only professionals who remain faithful to trousers, the last of which will doubtless soon be taken from golf courses to the British Museum.

Standing 3 up at the end of the morning round, Herd and Shepherd became 6 up at the 7th hole in the afternoon, and were playing so well that it looked as though they would add to the number.
Here it was that they had their bad patch.

Herd was on the green at the 8th (420 yards) with two wooden club shots, but he took three putts, and they lost the hole. He missed a putt of less than a yard at the 9th, and they lost that too. So it happened that they finished only 5 up.

Hall and Bradbeer, the winners, were also 3 up in the morning, and they increased their advantage steadily in the afternoon until they stood 7 up with two holes to play.
They lost the 17th, where Brad-beer missed a putt of two feet—his only mistake. They ended 6 up.

R. Taylor and Harry Vardon were 2 up in the morning, but came to grief in the second round.
Each side counted its better ball against bogey at every hole, the professionals giving 2 strokes per round and the amateurs playing under their club handicaps.

"LADIES MUST LIVE."

STAR.

The story of "Ladies Must Live"
the excellent Paramount picture showing at the Star Theatre as the feature attraction for to-day and to-morrow, is too long to be told in this brief space, but the theme, as the title might suggest, deals with the problem of how women in all social circles plan to direct the current of their lives, so that they may live according to the current of their individual tastes. The plot has a decidedly dramatic twist, and many of the scenes are thrilling to a degree. A notable cast includes Betty Compson as leading woman and Robert Ellis as leading man. The settings are of course equal to the theme, having been planned by the late Mr.
George Loane Tucker, who is famous in the screen world as the producer of "The Miracle Man".
Indeed, "Ladies Must Live" is the last picture that Mr. Tucker made. Owing to its manifold interest it represents an excellent attraction for the week-end.

Moscow, March 20.—The Vice Consul-General of the Soviet Union in Hongkong, Mr. A. A. Gerasimov, has been informed that the Soviet Government has decided to send a mission to Hongkong to study the conditions of the Chinese population and the economic situation of the colony.
